

A Report on Felony Crime in the District of Columbia for 2016

December 31, 2017

GOVERNMENT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Executive Office of Mayor Muriel Bowser

Office of the Deputy City Administrator
Office of the Deputy Mayor for Public Safety & Justice

December 31, 2017

This report, prepared by the Office of the Deputy Mayor for Public Safety and Justice, analyzes felony crime data for events in the District of Columbia that occurred between January 1 and December 31, 2016, and is issued pursuant to Section 210 of the Neighborhood Engagement Achieves Results Amendment Act of 2016, effective June 30, 2016 (D.C. Law 21-125; D.C. Official Code § 1-301.191(c)(6)).

Specifically, this report details the type, frequency, and location of felony crime incidents; felony arrests; D.C. Superior Court cases; sentences imposed for felony convictions; and demographic characteristics of felony crime victims and people arrested on felony charges.

I am proud that the spike in violence that the District experienced during 2015 has abated significantly. In fact, last year was one of the safest years in the District's history. We had an 11 percent drop in overall crime, with a 22 percent drop in violent crime. Thanks to the hard work of the Metropolitan Police Department, we saw a 27 percent citywide reduction in robberies, with each police district seeing significant drops as well – ranging from a 38 percent reduction in the First District to a 7 percent reduction in the Second District. Assaults with a dangerous weapon had an 18 percent citywide reduction, which includes a 22 percent drop in the Seventh District and a 21 percent drop in the Fifth District. Homicides fell 14 percent citywide, including a 23 percent reduction in the Sixth District. Additionally, property crimes fell 9 percent citywide, including a 28 percent drop in burglaries. In fact, burglaries citywide have been reduced by 52 percent since the end of 2014. Likewise, robberies citywide have fallen 34 percent in that same time period.

These are extraordinary accomplishments and we are grateful to the work of our law enforcement agencies, their dedicated officers and civilian staff, and the community partnerships they have developed in each of our neighborhoods.

Of course, the reductions in crime are not due to police work alone. The Bowser Administration has focused extensive amounts of resources on improving economic and educational opportunities, access to mental and behavioral health services, affordable and stable housing, and creating better pathways for our returning citizens.

Once the NEAR Act became effective in June 2016, we implemented each provision that was either funded or had no fiscal impact. In the Fiscal Year 2018 budget, Mayor Bowser fully funded the NEAR Act provisions that had not been funded the previous fiscal year.

In order to provide clarity and transparency on our implementation of the NEAR Act's 20 separate provisions, the chart below lists each provision and the status of its implementation.

1. Introduction

This report, prepared by the Office of the Deputy Mayor for Public Safety and Justice, analyzes felony crime data for events in the District of Columbia that occurred between January 1 and December 31, 2016,¹ pursuant to Section 210 of the Neighborhood Engagement Achieves Results Amendment Act of 2016, effective June 30, 2016 (D.C. Law 21-125; D.C. Official Code § 1-301.191(c)(6)), hereafter referred to as the NEAR Act. Specifically, this report details the type, frequency, and location of felony crime incidents; felony arrests; D.C. Superior Court cases; sentences imposed for felony convictions; and demographic characteristics of felony crime victims and people arrested on felony charges.²

¹ We began the process of identifying and requesting the data from local and federal partners in April 2017 and received data sets for analysis in November 2017.

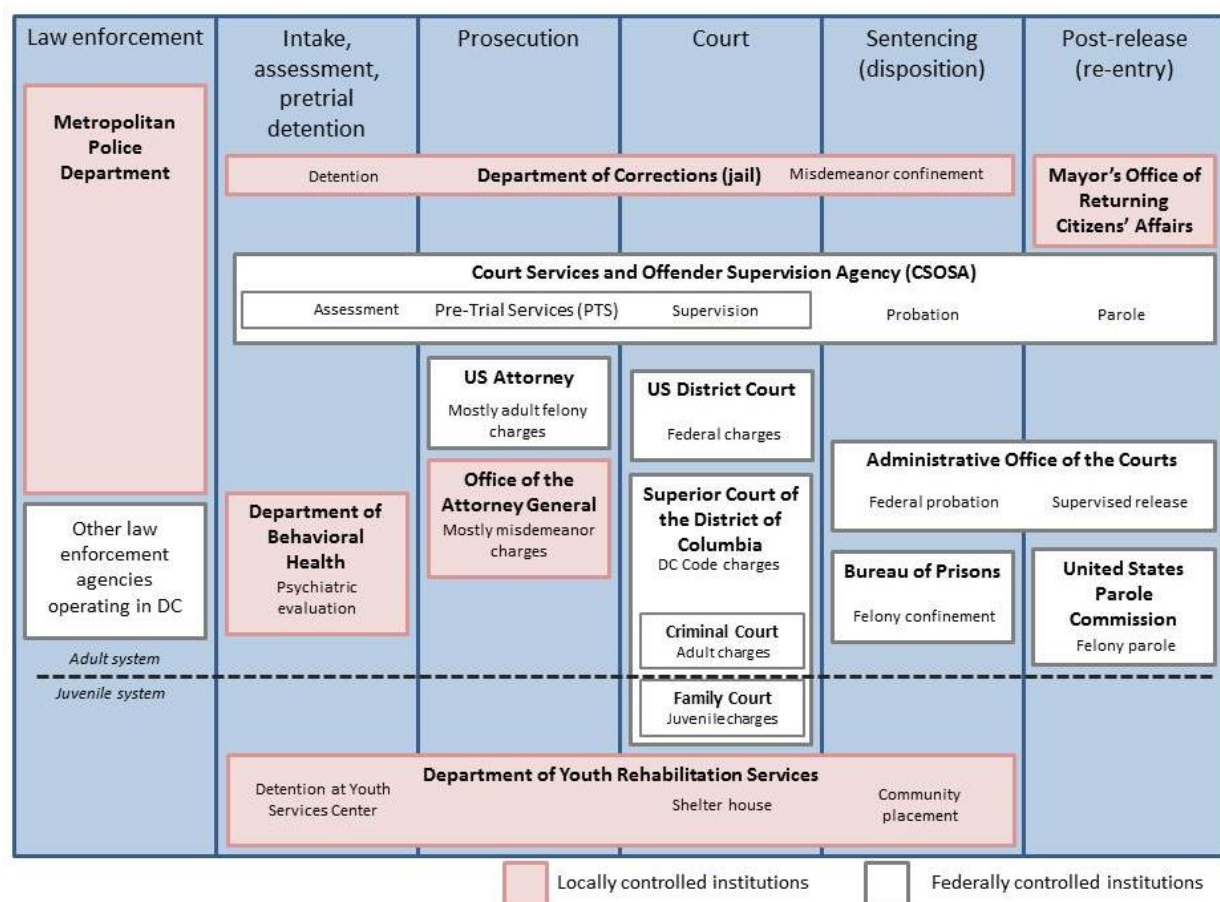

² Appendix A provides an index of the D.C. Code requirements for this data analysis and where they can be found in this report.

2. Data sources and limitations

One of the major challenges in creating this report was accessing and analyzing data from multiple criminal justice entities. The District of Columbia’s unique criminal justice system includes a variety of federal and local entities, some of which report to the Mayor or the District’s Attorney General, others to the President or the U.S. Attorney General, and others to the Chief Judge of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia (see Figure 1).

Each entity oversees a part of the criminal justice process, from law enforcement through prosecution, incarceration, and post-incarceration re-entry. Their respective data management systems were never designed to communicate with one another, nor were they designed for statistical reporting at a system-wide level. Extracting, cleaning, and linking the data from these multiple, independent systems to allow for analysis was a complex and time-consuming process. As a result, select analyses proved impossible due to limitations in the scope or structure of the data that was available; however, we are actively working with our criminal justice partners to solve these data challenges.

This report leverages information and records from four entities:

- (1) The Metropolitan Police Department (MPD), which provided felony crime incident and felony arrest data (although that data does not include felony crimes and arrests made by law enforcement agencies operating in the District of Columbia other than MPD, nor does it include sealed or expunged cases);
- (2) The Superior Court of the District of Columbia, which provided records of all misdemeanor and felony charges filed in criminal court;
- (3) The District of Columbia Sentencing Commission, which provided data on the sentences imposed for felony charge convictions; and
- (4) The Department of Behavioral Health (DBH), which provided records of contacts between DBH service providers and people arrested for felony crimes.

The data lifecycle of a crime begins when an MPD officer completes a digital police report in response to a reported or observed crime incident. Each crime incident is uniquely identified in the police report by a Criminal Complaint Number (CCN) and a single CCN may include one or more offenses. For example, a robbery that also resulted in a homicide could be part of the same crime incident and have the same CCN. A crime incident can have one or several victims and suspects. Crime events may or may not result in arrests, and arrests may occur shortly after the crime event or substantially later in time.

Each person who is arrested is identified by a unique Police Department Identification Number (PDID). Within a given arrest, the suspect—or multiple suspects—can be charged with one or multiple offenses. For example, if a suspect is arrested for a robbery that resulted in a homicide, the suspect would have one arrest number and two charges within that arrest (namely, robbery and homicide). And multiple people might be arrested for the same crime event. The total number of felony arrests is not a direct reflection of the total number of crime incidents, since not all crime incidents result in an arrest and multiple people can be arrested in association with the same crime incident.

The structure of the available MPD crime incident data is organized so that only the most serious (or “top”) offense within a crime incident is recorded, which is a traditional practice in law enforcement. To put that differently, all unique CCNs are represented, but only the top felony charge within the CCN is presented in the crime incident data. For example, a robbery that resulted in a homicide would show up simply as a homicide event. The MPD arrest data, in contrast, does contain all charge data but, for consistency, we focus on top charges here as well. Recall both datasets – the arrest data and the crime incident data – are restricted only to felonies. If an event entailed only misdemeanor offenses, it is outside the scope of this report’s data sets and analysis. Additionally, if an offense may be classified as either a felony or a misdemeanor depending on specific factors such as the type of drug, seriousness of injury, or amount of damage, it too is outside the scope of this report’s data and analysis.

Once an individual is arrested and charged with a crime, a prosecutor must decide whether to prosecute that person in court. There are two prosecutorial authorities in the District. The Office of the Attorney General (OAG) is generally responsible for prosecuting misdemeanors and juvenile crimes that are violations of D.C. Code. Most of these cases are filed in the D.C. Superior Court. If the defendant is accused of violating D.C. Code felonies, the United States Attorney’s Office (USAO) will typically prosecute the case in D.C. Superior Court as well. Violations of federal law would be prosecuted by the USAO in the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia.

The prosecutor may decide to not prosecute a case or a charge at all, which is referred to as “no-papering.” Once charges are filed in the D.C. Superior Court, the court creates a unique case number and the case is categorized as a felony³ or misdemeanor⁴ case based on the seriousness of the crimes. Each charge against the defendant is recorded separately, although multiple charges resulting from one incident are often tried together under a single case. Note that only cases themselves, not individual charges, are noted in the court data as felony or misdemeanor cases.

To calculate the number of felony arrests that resulted in conviction, the most straightforward approach would be to link MPD felony arrest records to their corresponding Superior Court records using a combination of CCNs, PDIDs, and charge codes. No entity is currently responsible for doing this. Linking arrest records to court records would enable us to trace the lifecycle of an individual criminal offense from arrest through prosecution and sentencing. To our knowledge, this has never been done before in the District at this scale. We attempted to do this with the data we received from MPD and the Superior Court, but we were not successful in the time available. We continue to work with the Superior Court to obtain CCN numbers so that we can complete this matching process.

As an interim solution, we look at the felony arrest dataset and the court dataset separately in this report. Thus, we are able to report on the number of people arrested for felony crimes in 2016, the number of felony cases filed in Superior Court in 2016, and the sentences imposed for convictions that were sentenced in 2016. But, because some of these court cases and the sentences imposed were for arrests that occurred prior to 2016, we cannot definitively say how many of the arrests in our 2016 felony arrest data resulted in prosecution or conviction because we were not able to identify their corresponding court records.

We also tried to calculate the sentence imposed for each conviction reached by the Superior Court in 2016, but we encountered a similar problem with the data. First, the available data does not identify whether sentences imposed for multiple charges within a single case were to be served consecutively or concurrently. For example, if a defendant was sentenced to two months imprisonment for theft and two months for assault, the data does not allow us to distinguish whether that person was ordered incarcerated for four months (a consecutive sentence) or only two months (a concurrent sentence). Second, there was a matching problem similar to that encountered in mapping arrest records to court records: the available sentencing data lacked a common identifier to the charge data, so we cannot track the sentence for any particular charge.

As an interim solution, we used publicly available data from the D.C. Sentencing Commission on the sentences imposed for all felony crimes sentenced in 2016.⁵ Note that this does not mean these crimes were also committed in 2016 and, in fact, it is likely that some were committed years in the past. However, we were able to use this data to present sentencing outcomes and examine variation in sentencing for each of the Sentencing Commission's offense categories.

³ Felonies are crimes where the sentence may be one year or greater or where the D.C. Code explicitly identifies the offense as a felony.

⁴ Misdemeanor crimes are all crimes where the sentence is less than one year, where the D.C. Code explicitly identifies the offense as a misdemeanor, or offenses that are codified in the D.C. Municipal Regulations.

3. Felony crime incidents in the District of Columbia⁶

Table 1 shows the frequency of felony crime incidents in calendar year 2016. There are two caveats in interpreting this data. First, a single crime incident may involve multiple offenses. However, due to how the crime incident data is structured, only the most serious (or “top”) felony offense is counted.⁷

Second, the raw data contains several hundred different offenses. We grouped these offenses into thematic categories to aid with interpretability. Our grouping strategy started with the offense categories typically reported by MPD; however, in some cases we further split out individual charges that occurred frequently (e.g., we let Failure to Appear stand alone as its own category because it is so frequent).

Some additional notes on the data in Table 1: Drugs, failure to appear, and prostitution are only counted as a crime when there is an arrest. Therefore, these numbers may not reflect true instances of drug, failure to appear, and prostitution cases. The 140 homicide count captures the total number of unique CCNs with a homicide or negligent manslaughter offense and a 2016 offense report date. It is important to note that this is not the methodology used by MPD to generate the District’s official homicide count, which is the total number of cases based on: the date the incident was ruled a homicide (and not the offense report date); counting by victims (and not by CCN); and excluding negligent manslaughter. Put another way, MPD’s count of homicides reflects the number of actual victims, whereas for purposes of this report, we are counting the number of CCNs in which a person was killed by another person, regardless of whether it was later found to be justifiable self-defense and, therefore, not a homicide under District criminal law.

⁶ Like most other jurisdictions, MPD reports crime two different ways. Primarily, it reports nine serious crimes that are defined in the D.C. Code (which it refers to as “D.C. Code Index Offenses”). This is according to District law and is how MPD officers classify offenses and make arrests. MPD relies on D.C. Code Index Offense information for daily operational and deployment decisions, and it is how crime information is shared with the public. MPD also generates crime data using uniformly established guidelines developed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation as the Uniform Crime Reporting System, or UCR. Our report specifically focuses on felony crimes which may or may not be captured among the D.C. Code Index Offenses. Therefore, the statistics in this report should not be compared with the statistics presented in MPD-developed reports and statistics (e.g., MPD Annual Report, website, etc.).

⁷ For example, if a homicide occurred during a robbery, the top charge would be the homicide. In Table 1, this event would increase the number of homicides by one but not increase the number of robberies.

⁸ Vehicle-related crimes are crimes where the involvement of a vehicle was the most significant factor. This includes offenses such as felony moving violations and driving under the influence.

⁹ Note that the definition of Assault on a Police Officer was changed by the NEAR Act, effective June 30, 2016.

4. Felony arrests in the District of Columbia

Table 2 reports the frequency of felony charges in arrests made by MPD during calendar year 2016.¹⁰ Our MPD felony arrest data contains records of 7,339 arrests in which the individual was charged with at least one felony crime. This includes 6,387 unique individuals (some individuals were arrested multiple times throughout the year). Because a single arrest may have multiple felony charges, Table 2 presents a sub-column A that tabulates all felony charges as well as a sub-column B that tabulates only the top felony charge. For example, if a person is arrested for both robbery and homicide, both charges are counted in A, but only the homicide is counted in B.

Notes: Felony arrest data represents instances where an individual was arrested and charged with one or more felony offenses.
Data Source: MPD Cobalt/Data warehouse (January 1, 2016 - December 31, 2016) queried on October 17, 2017.

¹⁰ It is important to note that arrest charges can change as the underlying crime is further investigated or by the prosecutor (e.g., charges can be added, dropped, or lowered during prosecution of the case).

¹¹ Escape from custody includes any event where a person who is in custody escapes (including from arrest).

Figure 2 shows the number of suspects and victims associated with each felony crime event. MPD identifies three classes of victims: people, organizations, and society. An event can involve multiple victims of different types and multiple suspects.¹² Of the 21,043 felony crime events in 2016, there were 15,419 where the victim was a person. Of those, 76 percent involved a single suspect and a single victim. Of the remaining events, 14 percent involved multiple suspects and a single victim; 7 percent involved a single suspect and multiple victims; and 3 percent involved multiple suspects and multiple victims.

Notes: Victim and suspect data reflects the number of individuals who are identified as either victims or suspects in a felony crime incident. Only victims who are identified as people are considered here as opposed to situations where a business property was burglarized, in which case the victim would be recorded in the data as a property. About 80 percent of victims were people. The suspect data only reflects the suspects identified at the time the police report was filed, not people who were necessarily arrested.

Data Source: MPD Cobalt/Data Warehouse (January 1, 2016 - December 31, 2016) queried on October 17, 2017.

¹² This report focuses only on incidents in which a person was the victim.

Table 3 presents the number of felony arrests made by MPD in 2016 by ward and police district. The most arrests occurred in Ward 8 (1,466 arrests), followed by Ward 5 (1,410), Ward 7 (1,304) and Ward 6 (893). Nearly 70 percent of all felony arrests in 2016 occurred in those four wards. When examining police districts, 73 percent of all felony arrests occurred in the First, Fifth, Sixth, and Seventh Districts. The most felony arrests occurred in the Fifth District (1,495 arrests), followed by the Seventh District (1,379), Sixth District (1,283) and First District (1,187).

Notes: Arrest location is based on the location where the arrest was made and may or may not be the location where the alleged crime occurred. Data source: MPD Cobalt/Data Warehouse (January 1, 2016 - December 31, 2016) queried on October 17, 2017. "Unknown" arrest locations are locations where the arrest latitude and longitude coordinates were not captured. An arrest record carries a PSA and District if it is a DC MAR verified address. Since an arrest address can be out of state (outside of DC MAR verification), officers have the ability to manually type in an address. If the address is not verified or carry out of state addresses, those records (usually 2%) are coded as Unknown. MPD provided block level coordinates. Arrests that occurred near a ward boundary may not be completely accurate.

Notes: Arrest location is based on the location where the arrest was made and may or may not be the location where the alleged crime occurred. Note that 183 arrests lacked specific geographic coordinates and are not included in this figure.

Data source: MPD Cobalt/Data Warehouse (January 1, 2016 - December 31, 2016) queried on October 17, 2017.

Table 4 presents demographic information about victims of felony crimes and people arrested on felony charges. Note that our felony arrest records do not contain data on arrests of anyone under age 18 but the victim data does contain records of victims who are under age 18.¹³

Among felony crime victims, 59 percent were black and 29 percent were white. Among felony arrestees, 90 percent were black and 7 percent were white. Among felony crime victims, 9 percent identified as Hispanic or Latino. Among felony arrestees, about 5 percent identified as Hispanic or Latino. Among felony crime victims, 58 percent identified as male, while among felony arrestees, 82 percent identified as male.

While we have obtained data on an individual's prior arrest history with MPD over the last 10 years, we do not have consistent data on convictions for either arrestees or victims. We are working with the Court to obtain this data. We can report, however, that among felony arrestees, 72 percent had multiple prior felony or misdemeanor arrests, 11 percent had one prior arrest, and about 17 percent had no prior arrests with MPD in the last 10 years. Information on the level of education of victims and arrestees is not provided to MPD and is not included in this report. This report also does not include analysis of any relationship between felony arrestees and victims because that information is not required to be provided to MPD.

¹³ Arrestee age is calculated by MPD based on the number of days between the self-reported or verified date of birth (DOB) of the arrestee and the date of the arrest; DOB data may not be accurate if self-reported. An arrestee may refuse to provide his or her date of birth. All ages calculated as 0-7 and 90+ are coded as "Unknown" per MPD's classification standard. Victim age is calculated based on the number of days between the date of the event date and the victim's date of birth (not the offense report date). Data for victims include those under the age of 18, while data for arrestees include only those aged 18 and over.

Notes: Victims are people identified as victims in felony crime events. Suspects are people actually arrested on felony charges by MPD. Age bracket 0-17 is not included for arrestees because we do not analyze juvenile arrest data in this report. For arrestees with multiple arrests, the demographic information recorded is from the most recent arrest.

Table 5 lists the police district of residence for felony arrestees and victims in 2016.¹⁴ About 22 percent of felony crime victims and 13 percent of felony arrestees resided outside of the District of Columbia. An additional 8.9 percent of victims and 8.5 percent of arrestees have residences that were unknown to MPD. We do not know how homelessness is captured in the data. Of the remaining felony crime victims, 13.9 percent lived in Sixth District (2,444 victims), 11.9 percent lived in the Seventh District 7 (2,086), 11.5 percent lived in the Fifth District (2,032), and 10.4 percent lived in the Fourth District (1,832). Of the remaining felony arrestees, 20.9 percent lived in the Seventh District (1,338 arrestees), 19.1 percent lived in the Sixth District (1,222), and 14.6 percent lived in the Fifth District (933).

¹⁴ It is important to note that home addresses of felony crime victims and arrestees may be based on a government-issued identification or may be self-reported and therefore the information may or may not be current and accurate. Victims and arrestees can also refuse to provide a home address.

Figure 4 displays the PSA of residence for felony crime victims and arrestees. Excluding victims from outside the District or whose PSA of residence was unknown, about 50 percent of felony crime victims resided in 19 of MPD’s 56 PSAs. Of the top ten PSAs with the most felony crime victims, four were in the Sixth District (PSAs 603, 604, 602, and 608), four were in the Fifth District (PSAs 507, 506, 502, and 501), and two were in the Seventh District (PSAs 704 and 706).

Excluding arrestees from outside the District or whose PSA of residence was unknown, about 50 percent of felony arrestees resided in 14 of MPD’s 56 PSAs. Of the top ten PSAs with the most felony arrestees, five were in the Seventh District (PSAs 704, 703, 708, 706, and 701), three were in the Sixth District (PSAs 603, 604, and 602), and two were in the Fifth District (PSAs 507 and 506).

Table 6 details the overlap between people arrested for felony crimes and people who received behavioral health services. Of the 6,387 felony arrestees in 2016, the Department of Behavioral Health (DBH) confirmed that 1,625 of them had received services from DBH in either 2015 or 2016. These services could include outpatient behavioral health services, substance abuse treatments, or inpatient behavioral health services at Saint Elizabeths Hospital.

Figure 5 plots the weekly volume of MPD crisis interventions incidents in 2016. Crisis interventions are situations where MPD officers handle calls for service involving persons suffering from mental or behavioral health illnesses. MPD officers are trained to de-escalate the situation and encourage professional intervention while preventing the individual from becoming a danger to themselves or others. In 2016, MPD recorded a total of 701 crisis intervention incidents. In each of those instances, the MPD officer completes Form PD-251-C and submits it to DBH. In a crisis incident, the person may or may not have committed a criminal offense, the officer may or may not arrest the person, and the person may be transported voluntarily or involuntarily.

Note: Crisis intervention incidents refer to all incidents where MPD transported an individual to a psychiatric treatment facility as documented by Form PD-251-C.

5. Adult misdemeanor and felony charges in D.C. Superior Court

Table 7 lists the frequency of criminal charges filed in D.C. Superior Court during 2016 and the dispositions of those charges. Importantly, these tabulations include both misdemeanor and felony charges. The available data indicated whether a case was a felony or misdemeanor case, but it did not distinguish whether each charge was a misdemeanor or felony. It is therefore impossible to tease the two charge types apart. Also importantly, these analyses exclude three types of court records that are inaccessible: juvenile, sealed, and expunged records.

In 2016, a total of 24,170 criminal charges were filed in Superior Court across 13,561 cases. A total of 9,844 people were named as defendants in these cases. Of these cases, 4,453 were labeled as felony cases with 3,891 people named as defendants. Citywide, MPD reported that a total of 44,175 arrests were made and 13,561 cases were filed in Superior Court. This suggests that a high percentage of arrests are never prosecuted.

Looking at all charges, 27 percent of charges filed in 2016 resulted in a conviction, 44 percent of charges were dismissed, 17 percent of charges remain open, and 2 percent of charges resulted in an acquittal. Note that convictions may be obtained through means other than an explicit verdict of guilty. To give one example of how this could occur, consider that defendants may be “convicted” as part a deferred sentencing agreement. In such a situation, the charges remain open while the defendant completes a probationary period. Upon successful completion of probation, the charges may actually be dismissed. Assault, drugs, weapons, and theft charges collectively accounted for 62 percent of all charges filed in Superior Court. There is notable variation in the conviction rate across charge categories. Assault charges resulted in a conviction 23 percent of the time, while robbery charges resulted in a conviction 48 percent of the time. Additionally, 52 percent of unlawful entry cases were dismissed, while only 9 percent of homicide cases were dismissed.

Note: Court data includes both felony and misdemeanor charges and arrests made by MPD and other law enforcement agencies operating in the District of Columbia. Data is at the charge level. The data use agreement between the Superior Court and the Deputy Mayor for Public Safety and Justice stipulates that no cell in a table that contains a number less than 20 may be displayed.

Data source: DC Superior Court data management system (January 1, 2016 - December 31, 2016), provided on October 19, 2017.

In 2016, the Superior Court arrived at a finding of guilt in 6,483 charges. Table 8 shows how these verdicts were reached. Almost 89 percent of convictions were reached by plea and less than 4 percent were reached through a jury trial.

Figure 7 plots the distribution of sentences to be served for a particular category of offense. Note that the D.C. Sentencing Commission uses a different offense classification.¹⁵ The dashed vertical lines indicate the average sentence length in months. The panels proceed from the top left in decreasing order of frequency. For example, the first panel in the upper left shows the distribution of sentences, in months, for 663 people convicted of violent offenses in 2016.

The median sentence for someone convicted of a violent offense was 22 months and the distribution is skewed to the right with a maximum sentence imposed of 192 months (16 years). For comparison, the median sentence for someone convicted of a drug offense in 2016 — the second most common offense in the Sentencing Commission data with 441 sentences — was under a month. Weapon-related offenses had a median sentence of 14 months, property-related offenses had a median sentence of 12 months, and sex-related offenses had a median sentence 40 months (3.3 years). For the 46 homicides that were sentenced in 2016, the median sentence was just under 138 months (11.5 years) and the maximum sentence was 420 months (35 years). Note that in cases where an individual was convicted of multiple crimes, we do not know whether the sentences imposed are meant to be served consecutively or concurrently.

¹⁵ Of the offenses listed in the Sentencing Commission data, 169 sentences were classified as “other.” These other sentences had a median sentence of 2 months but we excluded them from our panel of histograms.

7. Conclusion

The data collected for this report and the analyses we have presented are an important step towards greater transparency in the District's criminal justice system. In creating data sharing agreements with several District and federal criminal justice agencies, we have laid the foundation for future efforts at deeper levels of research and analysis. In the coming months, we plan to release the 2016 felony arrest records as open data and release all the code used to generate this report. We appreciate the dedication and assistance of the Metropolitan Police Department, the D.C. Superior Court, the D.C. Sentencing Commission, the Department of Behavioral Health, and the Department of Corrections. Our ultimate goal is to have a criminal justice data management system where everyone can work from the same set of facts. We believe this report is a first step towards that goal.

Appendix B. Section 210 of the NEAR Act

The full text of Section 210 of the NEAR Act is below.

(6) Beginning December 31, 2017, and by December 31 of each year thereafter, [the Office of the Deputy Mayor for Public Safety and Justice shall] deliver a report to the Mayor and the Council that analyzes the trends associated with the Metropolitan Police Department's felony crime statistics. The report shall include:

- (A) The number and type of felony arrests made by the Metropolitan Police Department;
- (B) The number of felony arrests that resulted in conviction and the sentence imposed;
- (C) The location of felony arrests by ward, district, and police service area;
- (D) The number of suspects involved in each felony arrest;
- (E) The number of victims involved in each felony arrest;
- (F) The characteristics of each suspect arrested for a felony crime, including:
 - (i) The age of the suspect;
 - (ii) The race of the suspect;
 - (iii) The gender of the suspect;
 - (iv) The level of education of the suspect;
 - (v) The police service area where the suspect resides;
 - (vi) The number of prior arrests the suspect has had with the Metropolitan Police Department;
 - (vii) The number and type of convictions on the suspect's criminal record;
 - (viii) The suspect's relationship, if any, to the victim of the crime for which he or she was charged; and
 - (ix) If known, whether the suspect has had prior contact with the Department of Behavioral Health; and
- (G) The characteristics of each victim involved in a felony crime, including:
 - (i) The age of the victim;
 - (ii) The race of the victim;
 - (iii) The gender of the victim;
 - (iv) The level of education of the victim;
 - (v) The police service area where the victim resides;
 - (vi) The number of prior contacts the victim has had with the Metropolitan Police Department;
 - (vii) The number and type of convictions on the victim's criminal record; and
 - (viii) The victim's relationship, if any, to the suspect.
